Welcome TO THE CAUSEWAY COAST AND GLENS

It’s supposed to be about the journey, not the destination - and when you look at the Causeway Coastal Route you can see exactly why.

Think dramatic cliff edges and coastline, magnificent beaches, Ireland’s oldest whiskey distillery, stunning archaeological feats and a breath-taking World Heritage Site and four Areas of Outstanding Natural Beauty you’ve packaged up one of the most stunning areas on the globe. It is easy to see why the Causeway Coastal Route is regarded as ‘One of the World’s Great Road Journeys’ and was recently named alongside Belfast by Lonely Planet as the No 1 Best Region to Visit in 2018.

Whether you’re thinking of coming to the Causeway Coast and Glens for the first time, or you are a regular visitor, there will always be something new to see and do. Some wonderful hospitality and the finest local produce awaits you in a choice of cafés, bistros, bars, restaurants and hotels.

The Visitor Information Centres (see back for details) will be pleased to provide you with any information on the area and assist you with your accommodation booking, whether you are looking for a hotel, guesthouse, B&B, self-catering property, hostel or a caravan park.

The Causeway Coast and Glens promises a warm welcome for visitors and an unforgettable experience. Find out more on visitcausewaycoastandglens.com

Dark Hedges
Bregagh Road, Stranocum, Ballymoney, BT53 8PX
T: +44 (0) 28 2766 0230
This beautiful avenue of beech trees was planted by the Stuart family in the eighteenth century. It was intended as a compelling landscape feature to impress visitors as they approached the entrance to their home, Gracehill House. Two centuries later, the trees remain a magnificent sight and have become known as the Dark Hedges. The Dark Hedges is one of the most photographed natural phenomena in Northern Ireland and a popular attraction for tourists from across the world. The road is reputedly haunted by a spectral ‘Grey Lady’ who appears at dusk among the trees. She silently glides along the roadside and disappears as she passes the last beech tree. Fans of Game of Thrones® will recognise it as the Kingsroad from Season 2. Please note that the road has been closed to vehicular traffic since October 2017. Nearby parking is signposted.

The Nine Glens of Antrim
T: +44 (0)28 2076 2024
E: ballycastlevic@causewaycoastandglens.gov.uk
W: www.visitcausewaycoastandglens.com
Located along the Causeway Coastal Route you will find the famous nine glens of Antrim:
Glencloy – The glen of the hedges
Glenarm – The glen of the army
Glenariff – The fertile glen Glenballyeamon – Edwardstown glen
Glencorp – The glen of the slaughtered
Glenann – The glen of the colt’s foot
Glendun – The glen of the brown river
Glenshesk – The sedgy glen
Glentaisie – The glen of taisie of the bright sides
Endowed with evocative names and blessed with a diversity of landscape, The Glens are rich in history, folklore and natural beauty – a world away from the frantic bustle of modern life. There are woods, waterfalls, riverside paths, viewpoints and forest parks. The Glens Town and Village 3D tourist trails are the perfect way for you to get out and explore the stunning Nine Glens of Antrim. Hidden in every location you will discover fascinating stories, historical facts and many of the myths and legends of the area. Details from Ballycastle Visitor Information Centre.

Rathlin Island, BT54 6RT
T: +44 (0)28 2076 2024
E: ballycastlevic@causewaycoastandglens.gov.uk
W: www.rathlincommunity.org
Rathlin Island lies off the coast of Northern Ireland just over six miles from Ballycastle and fourteen miles from the Mull of Kintyre, Scotland. Situated within the Antrim Coast and Glens Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, it is popular with bird watchers, geologists, botanists, walkers, divers and sea anglers – anyone with a love for rugged wild scenery. It includes several important natural heritage sites and is particularly internationally important for its flora, seabird colonies and in some cases its unique underwater marine life. It also has many interesting listed buildings and a strong cultural heritage, with storytelling, songs and music. Legend has it that Rathlin Island was the stopping place for Robert the Bruce and the famed spider.
To reach the Island, take the ferry from Ballycastle across to Rathlin to the harbour at Church Bay, the trip takes about 25 minutes on the Rathlin Express. As you sail along, you can identify the main features of the North Antrim Coast with Fair Head towering above the sea marking the topmost corner of Ulster. Slough na Morra, “swallow of the sea”, is a whirlpool in the sea south of Rue Point, the southern tip of Rathlin. You don’t have to do the round trip in one to the day: there are places to stay and a pub and café at the harbour. Visitors’ cars are restricted, so the roads are quiet and ideal for walking and cycling. On the island you can follow the Sustrans National Cycle, Network Route 93 to the west lighthouse, east lighthouse and Rue lighthouse or follow any of eight walking trails.
FILMING LOCATIONS

Game of Thrones® is an original HBO series based on George R.R. Martin’s best-selling fantasy novels, A Song of Ice and Fire. Since the pilot in 2009, the show has filmed across various location in Northern Ireland and many of them are in the Causeway Coast and Glens. For cast members Michelle Fairley (Catelyn Stark) and Conleth Hill (Lord Varys), it was something of a homecoming, as they originally hail from Coleraine and Ballycastle.

In this section, you will find the famous Glens of Antrim, starting with Glenariff and bringing you along the coast to Ballycastle and Rathlin Island and inland to Armoy and the now famous Dark Hedges. There is no doubt this area contains some of the most striking and varied scenery in Northern Ireland.

On a clear day, views from the coast include the Mull of Kintyre and Ailsa Craig off the Scottish Coast, while northwards the islands of Arran, Islay and Jura may be seen, the narrowest crossing point where the sea is no more than 12 miles wide can be found at Torr Head.
Glenariff River Walk
Glenariff with its magnificent scenery richly deserves its title “Queen of the Glens”. This linear 3km route begins in the village of Waterfoot, Glenariff and follows the Glenariff River up the Glenariff Glen with stunning views of Lurigethan to the North and the Garron Plateau to the South to Greenaghan Cottage on the Glen Road. The route can be extended by following the Glen Road to Laragh Lodge and accessing the Glenariff Forest Park Waterfall Walks.

Glenariff Forest Park
98 Glenariff Road, County Antrim, BT44 0QX
Glenariff Forest Park is a beautiful scenic area based in one of the nine ‘Glens of Antrim’. The unique Waterfall Walkway, opened 80 years ago, has been significantly upgraded along its 3 mile length which passes through a National Nature Reserve. The waterfalls provide a rich backdrop for photographers, as do the other forest trails, offering panoramic landscapes and peaceful riverside walks. A small visitor exhibition centre with interactive displays, tea rooms, restaurant and a caravan/camping site complement this “Gateway to the Glens”. Disabled access and car parking available. Forest Park opens daily from 10am. All facilities open Easter-October. Charges apply.

Cushendall
Cushendall is a conservation town and is known locally as “The Capital of the Glens” at the foot of Lurigethan Mountain. It is an excellent base from which to explore the Nine Glens of Antrim. Francis Turnley, who built the prominent Curfew Tower in its centre in 1817, owned Cushendall, once known as “Newtownglen”. Troublesome citizens were confined in this tower!
Red Bay Castle
Off the A2 Road, BT44 0SH
The ruins of Red Bay Castle are located on the main Coast Road between Waterfoot and Cushendall (on the high ground above the Red Arch). The history of the site dates back 750 years when John and Walter Bisset, banished from Scotland in 1224 for the murder of their uncle, purchased the Glens of Antrim from Richard De Burgo and are said to have built the castle on the site. The existing castle is believed to have been built by Sir James MacDonnell around 1561. It was the scene for various struggles and battles in the late 16th Century and was abandoned about 1600.

Layd Old Church
Layde Road, Cushendall, BT44 0NH
Layd Old Church can be accessed by public road or via the coastal cliff path, near the entrance to Cushendall Golf Club. A 13th century Franciscan foundation, Layd Church was the chief burial place of the MacDonnell’s after Bonamargy and has been built at least three times. It served as a parish church from 1306 to the end of the 18th century.

Waterfoot Beach
Cushendall, BT44 0QW
Waterfoot Beach is approximately 1 km in length and comprised entirely of sand. The bathing area is backed by dunes which run the length of the beach and the village of Waterfoot is at the northern end of the beach.

Waterfoot Beach Walk
The walk starts looking out towards Red Bay Castle, which projects out onto the headland just north of Glenariff and continues along the beach front to the sand dunes. Watch out for the Yellow-rattle flower and Small Copper butterfly. This conservation area is accessible via a kissing gate and access is restricted in winter when cattle are here to graze the meadows.

We deliver a wide range of outdoor activities at various locations in the Causeway Coast and Glens. One of our most popular outings is Coasteering, which takes place at Dunseverick Harbour. We also offer a host of other activities: Outdoor Laser Tag, Archery, Canoeing, Kayaking, Zip Line, Rock Climbing, Abseiling, Orienteering, Coastal and Mountain Walking.

Normally we work with large organised groups but do run a number of open events during the summer months.

Cottage Wood
Cushendall, County Antrim, BT44 0RR
This woodland park is a haven of peace in the centre of the village. There is a series of interesting walks, viewpoints, picnic facilities and playparks throughout this 10 acre site, look out for the red squirrels! Pedestrian access from Shore Road.

Cushendall Caravan Park Glamping Pods

Red Bay Castle
Cushendun
(Off the A2 coast road between Cushendall and Ballycastle)
This attractive village, managed by the National Trust, is best known for its unusual Cornish style cottages, (the work of Clough William Ellis between 1912 and 1925). The ruins of Castle Carra stand in a field above Rockport House at the north end of Cushendun Bay. This was a 15th Century MacDonnell stronghold. There are delightful walks along Glendun River to Glendun viaduct, a most impressive structure built in 1839 by the world renowned English Architect Sir Charles Lanyon. The Cushendun Red Caves were used for one of the more infamous scenes of Game of Thrones® TV series.

Cregagh Wood
Cregagh Wood, Glendun Road
Being an ancient woodland site, Cregagh Wood contains an abundance and diversity of indicator species and woodland specialist flora. Cregagh Wood is probably best known local for its population of red squirrels which has been supported by the work of the Glens Red Squirrel Group establishing feeding sites in May 2008.

Ronan’s Way
Glendun Road
Ronan’s Way will take you through a truly inspiring landscape, from the Glendun River through farmland, woodland scrub and peatland. It offers walks for a range of abilities but the most adventurous will be rewarded with breath-taking views from the top of the Glen over the Irish countryside and beyond to the Mull of Kintyre in Scotland. Today, it serves as a remote but worthwhile stop for visitors, revealing stunning views over the Mull of Kintyre. It is also an excellent example of metamorphosed limestone and indicative of volcanic rock sequences in Ireland and Scotland.

Torr Head
Ballycastle, BT54 6RQ
Torr Head played a crucial part in the history of the island, as it was often the last hope for Scottish clans seeking aid from allies in Argyllshire. In the 1800s this headland was important for recording the passage of transatlantic ships, relaying the information back to Lloyds of London. Today, it serves as a remote but worthwhile stop for visitors, revealing stunning views over the Mull of Kintyre.
Murlough Bay
Ballycastle, BT54 6RG

Murlough Bay is a wonderful place for solitude and nature. Buzzards and Peregrine Falcons hunt along the cliff tops while Eider and Fulmar skirt along the cliff tops at the bottom. It has breath-taking views of the surrounding coastline and the bay contains the ruins of an old church. Many rare plants grow nearby. There are different level car parks and picnic areas to enjoy.

Fair Head, Ballycastle is the greatest expanse of climbable rock in Ireland or Britain. It is the ultimate climbing venue stretching for 5 km. A copy of the “Fair Head Rock Climbing Guidebook” (2014) is available from Mountaineering Ireland. Detailed colour maps, route explanations and photographs make this an essential source of information for climbing at Fair Head.

Loughareema Vanishing Lake
Loughareema Road,
Ballycastle, BT44 0TA

A lonely and mysterious Moorland Lake, sometimes called the “Vanishing Lake”. One day a sparkling lake, a few days later a bed of cracked mud and not a drop of water in sight, this is indeed a mysterious place.

Fair Head
Ballycastle, BT54 6RD

Fair Head is Northern Ireland’s tallest cliff face, rising 600 feet about sea level, it is managed by the National Trust. Highly regarded as a rock-climbing location, it is believed to be the biggest expanse of climbable rock in either Ireland or Britain. Visitors can expect spectacular views along the rugged rocks of Fair Head, Murlough Bay and Torr Head. The rocky headland is the closest part of the mainland to Rathlin Island. Watch out for wild goats that can be seen roaming among the rocks beneath the cliffs. From the road, a manmade Iron Age island or crannóg can be seen in the middle of a lake, Lough na Cranagh. The lakes are stocked with trout and can be fished during the summer months.

For walkers, there is a series of ruggedly beautiful, wild and remote walks. All walks begin at the farm car park (£2 per car) clearly signposted off the Fairhead Rd. The trailhead panel in the car park will offer you a number of route choices with loops from 1.5 – 3.4 miles. Whichever walk you choose to do, be sure to take time to read the hidden interpretive information at each waymarker pointing out important sites of historic and geological interest along the way. Details on all walks at Fair Head are available from www.walkni.com.

Ballycastle

Ballycastle (twice crowned the Best Place To Live in Northern Ireland by The Sunday Times) boasts a wealth of activities from golf, tennis, sailing and water sports and less challenging pursuits such as shopping or leisurely strolls along the beach.

Enjoy delicious homemade ice-cream or end the day with a meal or drink in one of the many relaxing restaurants or lively pubs. Tradition and culture run parallel with modern living in this unique town making Ballycastle a must to visit, any time of the year.

Rathlin Island

Rathlin Island is an iconic landmark off the northern coastline of County Antrim and forms part of the panorama of the Causeway Coastal Route at Ballintoy, Carrick-a-rede and Ballycastle. High sea cliffs lend an aura of mystery and a sense of wanting to explore what lies beyond, and once you have experienced the natural beauty and tranquillity of the island, there is an allure to return time and again.

Yvonne Braithwaite is an artist in residence producing works in the form of commissions of local scenes of landscapes and seascapes on Rathlin and around Ireland. She also produces wildlife paintings on small rocks under the title “Rathlin Rock” and a wide range of cards from some of her works, all of which are available direct from the Studio.

In addition to the art and cards, the Studio also stocks a range of Pottery, “Bog Standard” Candles, Lip Balms, Soaps and Diffusers, Handbags, Scarves, hand made “Rathlin Mugs” and other small giftware items.

Kebble and Kinramer Nature Reserves

Kebble & Kinramer Nature Reserve incorporates the town lands of Kebble, Kinramer North and Kinramer South. The best time to visit this area would be late spring for orchids and the rare pyramidal bugle, summer for breeding seabirds and waders and autumn for waxcaps.

Toilets are available at the RSPB Seabird Centre (open seasonally) and there are walking trails, picnic tables and interpretative panels available. Please note that livestock are present and that dogs must be kept on leads at all times. Sturdy footwear is recommended.

In the grounds of St Patrick’s Church stands Armoy Round Tower, roughly 1,000 years old. The upper storey and cone-shaped roof are missing, but the remains of the lower part of the tower are in good condition.

A church was founded here by St Olcan, who was Bishop of Armoy in 460AD, reputedly saved from dying at birth by Saint Patrick. Excavations at this church in 1997 revealed the 400-500 year old remains of a leper, an unusual discovery because normally one so afflicted was not buried in Church grounds.

An opportunity to visit to Rathlin Island’s famous ‘upside down’ lighthouse and to view the largest breeding seabird colony in Northern Ireland. RSPB provide scopes and binoculars to provide fantastic views of the seabirds including everyone’s favourite, the puffin. The best time to view the birds is between May and July. There is also access to the lighthouse where interpretation provides information about its construction, the role of the Commissioners of Irish Lights, island connections and the people who worked there.

Access is via ferry from Ballycastle, then by private bus, or if preferred, a scenic four mile hike or cycle across the island to the West Light Seabird Centre where RSPB NI staff and volunteers will make you very welcome.

Please note that there are 90 steps down (and up) to the seabird viewing platform and a further 64 to the bottom of the lighthouse. Rathlin West Light Seabird Centre, is managed by RSPB Northern Ireland, and is also a member of The Great Lighthouses of Ireland partnership.

Facilities: Toilets, light refreshments, binoculars.
Admission: £5 Adult; £2.50 Child.

The Causeway Coast

A place of extraordinary beauty...

T he Causeway Coast, particularly the Giant’s Causeway itself, is arguably Northern Ireland’s most renowned area internationally and boasts the first UNESCO World Heritage Site in the country. It is a place of extraordinary beauty, encompassing spectacular coastal scenery with dramatic cliffs and headlands, broken by the wide sweep of fresh sandy beaches backed by dunes.

This natural landscape is made all the more impressive by the small harbours, fisheries and farms delicately dotted along the coastline. Not surprisingly, the Causeway Coast is a good place for seabirds, most spectacular are the crowded and noisy seabird breeding colonies at Rathlin Island off Ballycastle, or Carrick-a-Rede and Sheep Island, both near Ballintoy.

Other highlights include Dunluce Castle, situated beside the coast road between Portrush and Bushmills. In the village of Bushmills on the banks of the River Bush, you will find Old Bushmills Distillery, claimed to be world’s oldest whiskey distillery still in operation.
Ballintoy Harbour

Harbour Road, Ballintoy, BT54 6NA
Idyllically situated between the Giant’s Causeway and Carrick-a-Rede Rope Bridge, this area is renowned for its historic harbour, breath-taking views of Rathlin Island and Scotland beyond, spectacular geological architecture, large seabird colonies and rare plants. Reached by a steep winding road, it is a painter’s paradise with its sea stacks, rocky islands, pools and busy harbour. It is also part of the Causeway Coast Way, one of Europe’s great cliff-top and wild beach walks. A large car park and picnic facilities are available beside the café. Another Game of Thrones® filming location.

Rod hire and bait are available at Magheralough Fly Fishing Lakes situated close to Carrick-a-Rede Rope Bridge. These lakes are stocked with rainbow and brown trout.

Kinbane Castle

Kinbane Castle is a little-known jewel, secluded ruin at the bottom of a steep cliff face, the castle commands excellent views of the surrounding coastline with Fair Head to the East and Rathlin Island to the North. There is an air of peace and solitude at Kinbane which is difficult to find elsewhere, perhaps because the castle is slightly off the beaten track. Picnic area, toilets and parking can be found at Kinbane Head.

Portaneevey View Point

Situated close to Carrick-a-rede Rope Bridge, Portaneevey has a spectacular viewing point of the famous rope bridge. It has a spacious car park with several picnic areas.

White Park Bay

Ballintoy, BT54 6NH
A delightful sandy half-moon shaped beach between two headlands on the North Antrim Coast. It is one of the first Neolithic settlements in Ireland and three passage tombs are sited on the surrounding hills. It is backed by sand dunes and cliffs and is a rich area for bird life. Bathing is not recommended due to strong currents. Access to coastal path, youth hostel and car park.

Portbraddan Harbour

Portbraddan Road, BT57 8TA
Picturesque fishing village, under the cliff at the end of White Park Bay. The name means “port of the salmon”, it still has an operational slipway for salmon fishermen. Parking and access to the coastal path.

Dunseverick Castle

Causeway Road, Dunseverick, BT57 6LP
Part of the North Antrim Cliff Path and lying west of the village of Dunseverick, all that remains of the castle is a small wall on a high crag that faces the ocean. You would never guess that a distinguished castle once stood on that spot and that the area was popular enough to attract a number of visits from Saint Patrick himself. The remains of the castle are close to the little fishing harbour. Picnic area, parking and access to the coastal path.
Bushmills
The village of Bushmills, home to the world’s oldest licensed whiskey distillery, is steeped in history. At least 7 mills were sited on the River Bush, processing corn, flax, spades and ironwork, timber, paper and eventually in the 1880’s a generating station to power the new tram linking Portrush to the Giant’s Causeway— the world’s first hydroelectric railway system. Bushmills is a Conservation Village with some 80 listed buildings, shops, cafés, restaurants and hostelries.

Whiterocks Beach
Dunluce Road, BT56 8NF
The Whiterocks beach forms a famous striking landmark on the Causeway Coastal Route with its magnificent chalk cliffs. The waves at the Whiterocks tend to be larger and stronger making it very popular with bodyboard and kayak surfers, but beware of rip tides. A recently completed Environmental Improvement Scheme provides new access to the beach including board walks, viewing platform and shower facilities for water sports users. There is also a new off-road walking section of The Causeway Coast Way/Ulster Way, including a footbridge across the gorge and a scenic view point to the east of Whiterocks.

East Strand Beach, BT56 8DZ
This golden beach stretches from Portrush to the Whiterocks, with superb views over The Skerries to the Scottish Islands. It is backed by sand dunes just waiting to be explored, but watch out for stray golf balls from the famous Royal Portrush golf course!

West Bay Strand, BT56 8EY
West Bay, just a short stroll to the town with all its attractions, is a family favourite with a newly upgraded promenade walk and views of the bustling harbour.

The Guy L Wilson Daffodil Garden
University of Ulster, Cromore Road,
Coleraine, BT52 1SA
T: +44 (0) 28 7012 3456
W: www.ulster.ac.uk

This garden was established not only as a memorial to the father figure of Irish Daffodil breeders, Guy Livingston Wilson (born 1886), but also as a centre where varieties from other well-known Irish breeders could be displayed. The site is a south-facing rath dating back 1500 years, lightly wooded and slopes towards the River Bann. Located in the grounds of the University of Ulster, The Daffodil Gardens are well worth a visit, particularly in the spring, with around 1500 old and modern varieties providing a magnificent splash of colour.
St Patrick’s Church
Church Street, Coleraine, BT52 1PY
T: +44 (0) 28 7034 4213
W: www.stpats.co.uk
The church is located in the centre of Coleraine on the original site of the Early Christian Church founded by St Patrick in the 5th Century AD. Part of the present church dates from 1613 and it contains many fine and poignant memorials. Visitors are very welcome but are advised to check opening times by telephoning the Parish Office. Free summer recitals take place every Thursday during July and August.

Mountsandel Fort and Wood
Mountsandel Road, Coleraine, BT52 1TL
Mountsandel Fort is located just south of the town of Coleraine overlooking the famous Salmon Leap on the River Bann at Castleroe. Dating back to the Iron Age, Mountsandel Fort is beside the Mesolithic site of the first hunter-gatherers in Ireland, where excavations have revealed evidence of a Middle Stone Age settlement from as long ago as 7700-7400BC. Visitors to Mountsandel Wood today can enjoy a circular walk within the woodland, which is interspersed with interpretative panels, highlighting the history and biodiversity of the site. There is a commanding view of the town from the summit of the fort, which is thought to date to the Anglo-Norman period. Admission is free.

Navigation & Plantation Historical Touring Route
The Historical Touring Route focuses on three elements: the town of Coleraine, the River Bann and the Ulster Plantation and is designed to take you on a journey from past to present through beautiful landscape, dramatic scenery and hidden lands. You will begin your tour in Coleraine, travelling through a once forgotten countryside, learning of the folklore and the history that is evident in every tree and building, new or old. The enchanting tour uncovers the struggles and triumphs that have struck the land throughout the ages. You are sure to find beauty in the rugged landscape, old architecture and the knowledge of the people who once depended so highly on their natural landscape. The Historical Touring Route is available to download from www.visitcausewaycoastandglens.com.

Somerset Riverside Park and Somerset Forest
Castleroe Road, Coleraine, BT51 3RL
Connecting Christie Park and The Cutts area is a narrow strip of semi-natural riverside habitat on the west bank of the River Bann, overlooking Mountsandel Wood. Members of the public can enjoy a continuous riverside walk or cycle southwards from Coleraine town centre to Somerset Forest. This wood was part of the original Somerset Estate and offers extensive views across the Bann to the ancient Fort at Mountsandel. The mature broadleaf and coniferous woodland now has several walking trails running through it as well as a fitness area near the entrance and a trail for less able visitors to ‘Millennium Mile’ standard. The woodland is also home to many species of bird and plant life. Herons nest beside the woodland and adult birds can be regularly seen at the side of the River Bann when the tide is low. Picnic tables and car parking available.

Agivey River
The Agivey River drains the north eastern end of the Sperrin Mountains, flowing into the Lower Bann at Aghadowey and is one of the best medium sized salmon and grilse rivers in Ireland. Salmon start to run the river from May onwards, and numbers peak towards the end of August, depending, of course, on water flows. In addition to salmon, the river and particularly its tributary the Wee Agivey also hold an excellent head of resident brown trout which will give an angler exciting dry fly sport throughout the season. The Honourable The Irish Society (see page 74) has reserved day rods.

Ballymoney

Ballymoney Old Church Graveyard and Tower
Queen Street, Ballymoney, BT53 6JB
This burial ground is the site of the ruins of the old parish church, which was completed in 1637. The graveyard holds over 400 headstones, the oldest dating to 1610. The graveyard originally extended to the present parish church, built in 1782. In the 1840s, the road between Coleraine and Ballymena was cut through the middle of the graveyard, despite a determined protest by outraged townsfolk. Any headstones in its path were lifted and the bodies exhumed. A Ballymoney Old Church Graveyard Trail Guide is available from Ballymoney Visitor Information Centre.

Dooey’s Cairn Neolithic Tomb
Presbytery Lane, Bellaghy Road,
Dunloy, BT44 9DZ
(Grid Reference D0216 1830)
A Neolithic tomb dating from c.4000-2000 BC. This is the best preserved court tomb in the Causeway Coast area. It is named after Andrew Dooey who owned the land. His family granted it to the government in 1975. During excavations, archaeologists discovered various artefacts e.g. polished axe heads, flint arrows and decorated pottery. Evidence of cereal seeds was also discovered, implying that early forms of agriculture had been introduced into this region at the time of the burials. Accessible to the public.

Errigal Old Church
Ballyrogan Road, Ballintemple, Garvagh, BT51 5BQ
It is believed that a small church was built at Errigal around 560 A.D. The Church was attacked and rebuilt many times, until it was completely destroyed after the 1641 rebellion and a new Church was then built in the village of Garvagh in 1670. In the early days, the Church was called “Errigal Adamnan” after St. Adamnan - its patron. Another feature bearing the patron’s name is Onan’s Rock, an inauguration stone within Gortnamoyagh Forest, found near the old Church and unusual because of the footprints (said to be Adamnan’s) impressed on the rock.

Garvagh Forest
Main Street, Garvagh, BT51 5EF
Covering over 200 hectares, Garvagh Forest is situated on the outskirts of Garvagh, with trees from over 80 years old to those only planted at the turn of the 21st century, providing quiet walks and nature trails along the Agivey River. Watch out for spectacular bluebells in mid spring, the foxgloves in early summer and the common spotted orchids. The forest is also home to many birds and animals, including red squirrels, hares, finches and coal tits. The wildlife pond near the Forest Office is a haven for many aquatic species, especially frogs. Part of the Eagle’s Glen Cycle Route is signposted through the forest.

Binevenagh and Beyond

One of the Great Railway Journeys of the World

This section highlights the area stretching from Castlerock to Magilligan and inland to Limavady and the North Sperrins. Dominated by the distinctive headland of Binevenagh with its dramatic cliffs, there are spectacular panoramic views of Magilligan and Inishowen, Islay and Jura in Scotland, and Mussenden Temple and Martello Tower in the distance.

Many visitors choose to travel the coast by train - part of the railway journey between Coleraine and Londonderry featured in Michael Palin’s television series ‘Great Railway Journeys of the World’ and is nothing short of stunning.

©National Trust, Robert Morris
Castlerock

Castlerock is a small, quiet resort situated just a kilometre from where the River Bann meets the sea at The Barmouth, with a fine beach and a championship golf course. It is an attractive, peaceful village in which to enjoy forest and coastal walks, birdwatching, angling or tennis. The beautiful beach and attractions at nearby Downhill offer some of the most scenic views in Northern Ireland.

Ballyshannon to Ballycastle NCN Route 93
(236 miles) - NCN Routes 91, 92 & 93
A significant section of the National Cycle Network (NCN) Route 93 passes through the northern section of the Causeway Coast and Glens. It is readily identifiable by distinctive signage. Substantial sections of this route offer superb coastal scenery and are along traffic-free cycle paths. These sections are suitable for novice cyclists and families with young children. Experienced cyclists may choose to venture off the signed routes and explore the countryside at their leisure. The Lower Bann Cycleway is a 45 mile linear cycle route between Toome and Castlerock. The scenic route follows the Lower Bann River corridor from Lough Neagh to where the river enters the Atlantic Ocean at the Barmouth near Castlerock. The low-lying landscape of this river corridor provides a gentle cycle, leaving cyclists to enjoy the route at their leisure and take in the scenery of the Lower Bann.
